The 5th International Conference on Social Sciences and Intelligence Management (SSIM 2025)

October 16-17, 2025, Chaoyang University of Technology, Taichung, Taiwan

Special Session on AI Tools for Social Work: Empowering Practice and Decision-Making

Call for Papers
Organizers:
Prof. Vera Taube, Prof. Christoph Bördlein, Prof. Chuan-Ching Hwang, and Prof. May-Ling Chen

Artificial Intelligence (AI) is transforming social work by providing powerful tools for documentation, data analysis, and decision-making. AI-driven solutions are reshaping how social workers assess needs, manage cases, and implement interventions, offering new opportunities to enhance service efficiency and effectiveness. However, the integration of AI into social work also raises critical ethical considerations and challenges related to data privacy, bias, and the role of human judgment in decision-making processes.

This Special Session on AI Tools for Social Work: Empowering Practice and Decision-Making seeks to bring together researchers, practitioners, and policymakers to explore the applications, benefits, and challenges of AI and intelligent management systems in social work and social policy. We welcome contributions that offer theoretical insights, technical advancements, case studies, and critical analyses of AI's role in supporting social work services and policies.

Topics of Interest Include (but are not limited to):
1. Applications of AI in Documentation, Analysis, and Decision-Making in Social Work
2. Artificial Intelligence and Automation for Needs Assessment of Social Work Service Users
3. AI-Enhanced Case Management and Workflow Automation
4. Ethical Considerations of AI Applications in Social Work
5. Applications of AI and Information Technology in Addressing Social Inequality and Issues Faced by Vulnerable Populations
6. Information Systems and Practical Applications in Social Work
7. Applications of AI and Intelligent Management in Social Work and Social Policy
